Sizanani Adventist Delivers Welcome Sandwiches To Primary Schoolchildren

Sizanani Adventist branch of Meals on Wheels in Umlazi, Durban feeds car washers and ironing ladies, as well as taking sandwiches and samp to a nearby junior primary school twice a week.

Umlazi is a huge sprawling township south of Durban, with high unemployment and massive social problems. Most people, especially school children, simply don't get enough to eat.

"We need an office and office furniture because we are working from my house at the moment," says branch manager, Mrs. Them bani Ncanana.

"A container won't be a solution because we don't have anywhere to put it. If someone could let us use a spare room, that would help a lot. We also need gas stoves, pots, tables, chairs and cups."

Sizanani Adventist feeds up to 500 people a month.
